No.350

The blade shape allows to perform a micro incision.

Width: 2.0mm

Width: 2.0mm

No.391

Allows to perform a safer incision and high operability.

General BenefitPrecise Cutting and Performance

The stainless steel blades offer outstanding sharpness and superb durability due to double-honing precision grinding.

Particularly Compatible

The blades are suitable for all standard surgical handles as well as with the FEATHER® Titan Roundshaft Handle.

No.350

It allows the delicate incision in the thin gingiva and creates an accurate flap design.

A small sized surgical blade is reachable between the teeth during the periodontal regeneration surgery; allows an oblique incision in the interdental space and creates the accurate flap.

Total length is 3mm longer and blade length is approximately a half of No.390.

Application

Fig. 390

Fig. 390c

No.391

Total length is longer than No.390 and it allows a deeper envelope flap.

A shorter blade than No.390 allows a safe and accurate gingiva incision during the envelope flap surgery.

- ▶ Safe application for horizontal enlargement incisions of flaps.
- ▶ Suitable for incisions in regenerative surgery.

Fig. 390

- ▶ Perfectly suitable for creating flaps to prepare operational recession covers thanks to the ideal micro blade shape and the minimized blade thickness.
- ▶ The unique and thin micro blade shape allows precise sulcus incision on the gingiva in the anterior teeth.

Fig. 390c

- ▶ Perfectly suitable for incisions of interdental papillae in the molar area thanks to the thin blade tip and angled blade shape.
- ▶ Ideally suitable for sulcus incisions in the posterior tooth area as the angled blade allows easier handling.
